One way to go about this is that each individual citizen shall instantly resolve himself into a committee of one to wait upon and argue with every Congressman be knows for the purpose of getting votes in both Houses in favor of a change of our form of government. In this way Congressional opinion will be manufactured and educated up to a proper appreciation of our affairs, and, when some definitive form or proposition shall be submitted, prompt and proposition shall be submitted, prompt and favorable action will ensue as a matter of course.

MULTIPLY the crime of the Garcelonites in this wise: not equal the colossal crime of Southern Bourbonism. Twenty-seven Republican members of the Legislature in Maine have been threatened with being fraudulently connected out and thereby colors. by tens of thousands and the result would counted out, and thereby only about seventy thousand voters are threatened with disfranchisement. But the figures in the South show that entire State legislatures have not only been threatened, but actually seized upon and taken possession of by the Bourbons. Besides this, they have wrongfully taken from the Republicans at least twelve United States Senators, forty Representatives and fifty electoral votes. And resentatives and fifty electoral votes. And this is not all, for it also appears that these During the past summer, aroused by the Miscolossal usurgations have been obtained by the practical disfranchisement of more than funds had been collected by the Lagrange Sometimes of works. a million of voters.

This fact undoubtedly hinges upon the other fact that none but a millionaire can afford to accept and anstain one of the four or five principal foreign missions, so expensive has become the position to the incumbent, and so meagre is the compensation. Wealth and fitness are not common under the same hat, as money and intellect are singularly harnessed together in this world, and hence the rule seems to be that he who has wealth is not qualified, and he who is fit has not the wealth required to sustain the incidental wealth required to sustain the incidental expenses that attach to the position. Under such circumstances the Government should in a exodus, the first party arriving eight either abolish its diplomatic relations with hem conduct and there are now in the Salar either abolish its diplomatic relations with foreign nations or provide more generously about 700.
